Lemos was the first witness put on the stand by the prosecution. As soon as Bitting saw him he began to object. "I overrule the objection," said the judge. "You'll waste more time by ob specialty. During the examination of a witness he conversed with the interpreter and Judge Wilcox called him down. Immediately after, Correa sat back in his chair and gazing at the deputy sheriff, and told him he ought to know better. old him to get out. He asked to see the law, and Creighton hit him in the chest, saying that he was the law. He refused to leave the premises, and Messrs, M. I. Silva, Camara, Azervedo and Gouvela, morally assisted by the other defendants, took hold of him and forcibly ejected him. After which his goods and chattels were deposited on the sidewalk. Two other witnesses for the prosecution told practically the same story.

Creighton, Officer Stewart and M. G. Sliva testified for the defense. They denied that force had been used on Lemos. He went out peaceably on demand, so they said. An attempt was made to show that M. G. Silva and his colleagues had a right to the property. No actual evidence to this effect was adduced, how Chillingworth's argument he had occasion to again refer to Mr. Bitting, whom he said had made statement about him in court which he would not dare to do in the road. The attorney turned several different colors, but refrained from throwing the ink-pot at the athletic deputy. "This is a case of gross assault," said udge Wilcox, in summing up, "and the throwing of complainant's goods into the street borders on highway robbery. "The law directs how persons shall police officer present when this trouble took place had no business there except to preserve the peace. Not even the high sheriff would have any right in such a matter, much less an ordinary police officer. The policeman advised the old man, Lemos, to give up the place in order that passed through the "Palatable Attachthere might be peace. That was wrong. A great many people have a mistaken idea about going to a policeman for everything. If there is a dead mule in the harbor, it is 'get a policeman to remove it.' The time when this kind of thing was in vogue has passed by. We have become Americanized, and we must follow the law closely. I think that this has been a high-handed proceeding. If the complaining witness had been on the premises with firearms, or if the people who went there to dispossess him had been armed, there might have been bloodshed. This kind of thing must be stopped. I am surprised that so many attorneys have been mixed up in this thing and have given wrong advice. fine you all $25 and costs aplece."

"We note an appeal," said Bitting. "Go ahead," said the judge; "there's always room for an appeal."

DANDRUFF WON'T WASH OUT.

The Germ that Causes It Has to be Destroyed to Cure Dandruff.

Many a woman spends an hour twice a week scouring her scalp, thinking scrubbing off the scurf will cure the dandruff. Two hours a week, at the age of 40 years, she has spent 260 Jays of 12 hours each or two-thirds of a nes Charles Creighton and John Gouveia, year of her life, in that vain hope; vain, because you can't cure dandruff without killing the dandruff germ, and the only hair preparation on earth that will do that is Newbro's "Herpicide"also a delightful hair dressing, and Tilts between the judge and tagion from use of others' hair brushes.

A CARD OF THANKS.

Y. Soga's Compliments to George Kluegel and Dr. Wall.

Honolulu, Dec. 17, 1901. through your paper for the kindness of Mr. George Kluegel and Dr. A. C. Wall and one other gentleman, who gallantly assisted me and one of my friends, out of the adriftness of our boat on Waikiki beach at the evening of the last Sunday. Those gentlemen were so generous and warm-hearted, to give us some spirits to keep off from the coldness, and tow our boat to the safety place after the dark, that we felt so grateful, as we have no words to express for their chivalry and politeness Thanking for your space. Yours,
